

ANSWERS

Equality.

Equality is not explicitly guaranteed in the original U.S. Constitution. It is not inherent in Republican governments. While the founding father's did not favor a traditional aristocracy, they did believe in a merit-based "natural" aristocracy and did not necessarily believe in total equality in all things.