

ANSWERS

1. What's in a name?
2. She and Romeo are being kept apart because their families do not get along. She poses the question to bring attention to the fact that it's silly for them not to be able to be together because of their names (what families they belong to). Her answer is that what something is called does not alter or define what it IS.