

ANSWERS

An invective is language intended to insult or offend.

It is a noun.

Invective can be found in literature, speeches, and everyday, real life conversation.

related words: insult, diatribe, harangue

The noun is from late Latin invectiva (oratio) 'abusive or censorious (language)'

Invective can be found in political situations; movies; novels; in real life from parents, coaches, teachers, etc.

sentences will vary