

ANSWERS

Sophocles

Oedipus unknowingly kills his father and marries his mother.

He is a confident and successful king.

The peripeteia occurs when Oedipus learns of his parents' true identity from the messenger, and he realizes that the prophecy was true and unavoidable.

Oedipus blinds and exiles himself.