Understanding Comic Strips Answer Key

1. The theme of this comic strip is environmental protection and conservation, focusing on actions that can help combat pollution and preserve nature.
2. The characters in green costumes seem to be eco-friendly superheroes or environmental activists. In the first panel, they are standing proudly in a clean, green forest, suggesting that they may be there to protect it or have just completed a successful conservation effort. One character is holding a tablet, which could imply they are monitoring the environment or planning their next move.
3. The environmental issue being addressed in the second panel is water pollution, specifically the contamination of a river or lake. One character is seen leaping into the water, indicating an immediate response to the problem.
4. The characters are actively cleaning up the pollution in the third panel. They're collecting the garbage that's been carelessly discarded into the environment, symbolizing direct action against pollution.
5. The overall message is one of environmental activism and taking direct action to address ecological issues. It advocates for individual and collective responsibility in protecting and cleaning our natural spaces. The superheroes symbolize the idea that anyone can be a 'hero' by participating in environmental conservation efforts.
