

ANSWERS

Respecting a person means treating others in a way that shows you care about the other person's thoughts, feelings, rights, and beliefs

Respecting a place means taking care of and treating it as if it were your own.

Respecting a thing means taking care of and treating it as if it were your own

Treating people, places, and things with respect builds feeling of trust and safety in the community.