

Grammar Detectives: Case of the Mixed-Up Memo (Teacher Edition)

Instructions: You have been hired as a Grammar Detective to investigate a suspicious memo sent by a student to their teacher for Teacher Appreciation Week. Something's off... Can you find and correct the 15 errors in the memo? Circle or underline the errors and rewrite the corrected version on a separate sheet.

The Mixed-Up Memo

dear Ms. Thomas,

Happy Teacher Apreciation Week! I wanted to do something special so I planned a surprise part in your honor. I told everyone in class to keep it a secrt, but jon blabbed about it during math class.

Dont worry though, we still have some good plans. We are going to decorate the room with poster's, ballons and a giant banner that says, "Your the best teacher ever!"

Timmy volunteered too bring cupkakes, but he forgot that he was alergic to frosting. I guess we will just eat fruit snacks instead.

Also, I wrote a poem for you:

"Roses are red
Violets are blu
Without you're help
We wouldn't get thru."

I hope this week is super awsome and that you get lot's of chocolate and coffe. Thanks for teaching us even when we are loud and don't stop talking.

sincerely,
Alex

Task:

- Find 15 mistakes in the passage.
- Mistakes include: spelling, grammar, capitalization, punctuation, contractions, and word usage.
- Bonus: Fix the poem to make it rhyme and use correct grammar!