

ANSWERS

1. The foundational idea of the community that all things and people need to be the same.
2. Most people can't see color, which makes everyone look more the same than they actually are.
3. As he is first beginning to be able to see color, he begins to see that she actually has bright red hair.
4. They aren't really aware of what they are missing because The Giver holds all the memories and thus all of the wisdom of the community.