

ANSWERS

1. 1925

2. It was the roaring twenties. Society was changing quickly. The United States was enjoying a time of great wealth after WWI. The era was characterized by hedonism.

3. cars, radio, movies

4. racist attitudes

5. Daisy represents the position that women have few options in the world; Jordan represents the modern, unmarried, woman with a source of income, but she is criticized by the male characters. Myrtle, less privileged than the other two women, is dependent on her husband.