The Craziest Field Trip Ever

Yesterday, our class _____ six enormous bags onto the school bus. (carry) Everyone was excited because we were visiting a new museum filled with strange inventions.

When we arrived, three tiny _____ rolled past us in shopping carts. (puppy) Each puppy wore goggles and waved _____ at the crowd. (happy) Our teacher _____ to explain that they were part of the museum show, but no one could hear her. (try)

The room became _____ when a machine began launching rubber chickens into the air. (noisy) Two students _____ to catch them while the rest of us ducked behind a giant robot statue. (hurry)

Then the robot suddenly came to life and _____ a message onto the wall. (copy) It said, "WELCOME TO THE WORLD'S _____ INVENTION SHOW!" (silly)

A guide led us into the next room, where dozens of mechanical _____ were flying in circles. (butterfly) One landed on my backpack and made it feel even _____ than before. (heavy)

At lunchtime, the cafeteria workers moved _____ as they served purple soup and square sandwiches. (busy) The soup was the _____ food I had ever seen, but it tasted surprisingly good. (messy)

After lunch, we watched a machine that could make people look younger, taller, or _____. (funny) Our principal stepped inside and came out wearing a clown nose and giant shoes.

Everyone laughed _____ as he danced across the stage. (happy) Then the machine started shaking, flashing, and making the _____ sound in the building. (noisy)

The guide _____ to turn it off, but the buttons would not work. (try) Finally, one of the puppies _____ the emergency cord and stopped the machine. (carry)

Before we left, our teacher said it had been the _____ field trip of the year. (crazy) We agreed that it was also the _____, _____, and most unforgettable trip we had ever taken. (funny, messy)
